ESCAPE DEATH IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Big Irvin Touring Car Topped Over
Bridge Abutment Near Oxford,
O., Sunday Morning.

STOOD ON ITS NOSE IN RIVER

Mrs. Coleman and Daughter Pinned
Between Auto and Stonework —Miss Bishop Jumped.

In an automobile accident in which A. B. Irvin's big six-cylinder Franklin touring car toppled over a bridge abutment down ten feet into a stream on its nose about one and one-half mile southwest of Oxford, Ohio, yesterday morning, Mrs. Emily Coleman and daughter, Miss Henrietta, Miss Jeanne Bishop and A. B. Irvin escaped injury or perhaps death. The fact that Mr. Irvin was driving very slowly probably saved all their lives.

The members of the party did not escape, however, without some minor injuries. Mrs. Coleman was rendered unconscious and was believed to be dead when dragged out from under the car. Miss Bishop, who was in the front seat, leaped from the car before it went over the abutment. Mrs. Coleman and her daughter who were in the tonneau, were pinned between the car and the stone abutment. Mrs. Coleman was soon revived after the accident. She received a bad bruise on the back of her head which probably rendered her unconscious. Miss Coleman was badly bruised about the body and Mr. Irvin received several bruises and was considerably jarred. Miss Bishop escaped without a scratch.

The members of the party probably owe their lives to Mr. Irvin because he was driving very slowly. If he had been running the machine at a moderate rate of speed it is highly probable that it would have dived over the abutment and out into the stream, pinning them all under it. A small bump in the road caused the auto to take the tumble over the abutment.

The party was on the way to Oxford for a brief visit with Miss Effie Coleman. When they were near Oxford they came to a place in the road where some repairs were being made. The material which was being used in the repairs was piled out in the middle of the road and all vehicles were compelled to go down on the side. Where the side road leads upon to the pike a stream passes.

Mr. Irvin could see the obstruction in the road for three hundred yards and had slowed down to make the drive carefully. Just as he was about to turn up on to the main road, the left front wheel struck a big bump in the road, throwing the heavy machine over against the bridge abutment. It went a short distance too far and the weight of the front end caused it to topple over in the stream. The machine stood there on the front end, refusing to turn turtle. The fact that it did not turn over on the three remaining occupants probably saved their lives.

A machine was sent for and the members of the party taken on to Oxford. Mr. Irvin returned and with a force of men spent some time getting the heavy machine up out of the water. It was necessary to use a block and tackle to put the auto on its wheels. It was taken down the stream where the bank was low and taken back into the road.

The auto was only slightly damaged by the accident. The left fender was considerably bent and the left light broken. The glass shield was broken and the whole right side of the machine was scarred. The auto started on the second attempt to crank it.

HEARS OF SISTER'S DEATH

Mrs. Forrest Sandusky of Jackson, Miss., Expired Last Night.

J. E. Spradling received a telegram this morning stating that his sister, Mrs. Forrest Sandusky died at her home in Jackson, Miss., last night. Mrs. Sandusky was well known here. The burial will take place in Indianapolis tomorrow.

TELEPHONE CABLE BOX BURNS OUT

City Fire Department Called Out by an Alarm at Box Number Forty-three.

ALARM BRINGS LARGE CROWD

A telephone cable box located in the alley between Morgan and Harrison streets on Seventh was burned out Saturday night by one of its connections coming in contact with one of the city wires. The fire department was summoned about nine-thirty o'clock by an alarm from box forty-three. The alarm brought many people from the down-town district. Twenty-five phones were disabled. Repairs will be completed by tomorrow morning.

ATTEMPTS TO TAKE HER LIFE

Walter Aldridge Rushes to Attic in Time to Prevent His Wife Committing Suicide.

NO REASON FOR HER RASH ACT

Was Black in the Face and Trying to Pull the Noose Tighter When Husband Arrived.

Rushing up to the attic of his home south of the city yesterday morning, Walter Aldridge found his wife with a rope around her neck, attempting to commit suicide. When he arrived she was black in the face, but she did not succeed in taking her life. She was trying to slip the noose down on her neck when Mr. Aldridge took hold of her and prevented it.

Mrs. Aldridge seemed in a sort of a stupor after the attempt at suicide. She was taken down stairs by her husband and a physician called. She has refused to discuss the incident at all and will not talk to any of the members of her family about the trouble. She will not state why she attempted to take her life.

The members of the family are at a loss to explain her unusual act. Mrs. Aldridge, so it is said, has been in very good health all of her life and has never suffered with any disease or sickness in the last few years. She is very robust and in perfect health. The doctors believe that it was only a temporary fit of insanity which came on her suddenly. She is much better today and will recover.

Mr. Aldridge had gone over to the barn yesterday morning to feed his stock when one of his children came running to him, telling him that their mother was in the attic, attempting to commit suicide. Mrs. Aldridge would probably have succeeded in taking her life, had not the child interfered. Mr. Aldridge rushed back to the house and found his wife before her life was extinct. She was attempting to pull the noose down on her neck when he pulled her down.

This is only one of the numerous troubles which Mr. Aldridge has encountered in recent years. It has not been over a year ago that he was beset by a series of unfortunate events. His stock began to die and he lost several valuable horses, cows and hogs. Their peculiar sickness led him to believe they had been poisoned. At the same time several of his children were seriously sick and he at one time considered moving from that neighborhood. Later his luck changed and he remained there. Mr. and Mrs. Aldridge have four young children.

MERCURY GOES SKYWARD.

SPEND SUNDAY ON MAN HUNT

The Shelbyville Police Chase House
Breakers Into Rush County and Finally Arrest Them.

LATER CONFESSES THE CRIMES

Man Giving Name as Mike McNamery and a Negro Are Caught Near Homer.

Nearly fifty miles of distance was covered by Police Chief Manlove, Day Officer Fagel and Peter Hoop in an automobile Sunday in a man hunt that began in this city and ended at Homer, Rush county, and the best part of the performance is that the man was caught and is now in a cell at the local jail to answer to a very serious charge, most likely house-breaking, which will mean on conviction a stay of not less than ten years in State prison for the man, says the Shelbyville News today. He is apparently about 40 years old and says his name is Mike McNamery and that his home is at Jacksonville, Fla.

He is plainly a dope fiend, as his arm shows many punctures from the hypodermic. Captured with McNamery is a negro, apparently about twenty years old. So far he has not given a name or a place of residence. He is not regarded as a very good catch, but will be held as a witness to prove that McNamery broke into the residence of William Keppel, one half mile east of Rays Crossing Sunday. The residence of Elbert Marshall, a quarter of a mile east of the Keppel home is also supposed to have been entered by McNamery. Articles were taken from both homes, but they were of little value.

The first incident connected with the sensational chase began in this city at the Mueller & McCollum restaurant at 8 o'clock. The man who subsequently gave his name as McNamery appeared there at 8 o'clock and ordered a lunch. He proposed to pay for it in postage stamps and the man in charge of the place finally accepted twenty one-cent stamps. This aroused suspicion and officers were soon put on the trail.

The police at once hurried to the restaurant and were informed that the man had started down the Big Four railway and that he had been joined by a negro. The officers followed, but the instant the two men got sight of their uniforms they ran like deer down the track. They gained all the time on the officers and at the Amos pike the officers took an I. and C. car that happened along hoping in that way to get within striking distance of their quarry. The ruse failed as the pursued saw the officers board the car and promptly put across the country to the east. The officers left the car as soon as they saw their plan was doomed to meet with failure and made their way to a farm house where they telephoned for Peter Hoop to join them with his machine. He was at the spot in a few moments and all of the country roads in the vicinity were scoured in the machine but the men disappeared and the chase was abandoned by the party.

Sheriff Buller and his deputy joined in the chase in his auto. They were urged to activity by Deputy Sheriff Ben Laws, whose home is near the place where the men had last been seen by the officers at the time they were on the I. & C. car. The deputy sheriff reported that a man had been seen to enter an old barn in the neighborhood and it was believed he was the white man the officers had been chasing. The search in the Butler auto met with failure and the matter was dropped by the officers who at that time believed the incident closed.

NARROWLY AVERT DISASTROUS FIRE

Ed Sherman by Mere Chance Discovers Screen on Back Door Ablaze and Fast Gaining Headway.

MIGHT HAD SERIOUS RESULTS

When Ed Sherman walked into the kitchen of his home yesterday evening, he discovered a fire which might have gained such headway that it would have totally destroyed the property in Perkins street. The screen door was ablaze and the fire was fast eating its way to weatherboarding. While Mr. Sherman was attempting to tear the screen door off, his wife dashed a bucket of water on the fire and partially extinguished it so that it was easily put out. Mr. Sherman only by the merest chance happened to walk back to the kitchen from the front yard where the family was sitting. The members of the Caron family, who live in the other side of the house, were all out in front so that the fire might have been a disastrous one had it not been discovered when it was. They can not explain the cause of the fire.

CONCERT WILL BE BEST EVER GIVEN

Plan to Make Benefit Entertainment
For Mrs. Headlee of Unusual Interest.

TICKETS ARE SELLING RAPIDLY

What is expected to be the best home talent concert ever given in this city will take place at the Main Street Christian church tomorrow evening. The entertainment will be in the nature of a benefit affair, the proceeds to go to Mrs. Headlee, widow of W. O. Headlee, who died recently and left his wife and four small children almost destitute. The tickets are selling rapidly and it is thought that a crowd which will more than fill the church will attend. The program will consist of voice and instrumental numbers by the best musicians in the city.

STOCK HAS BEEN SOLD

Turner Bros Are Preparing to Close Doors.

A few more days and the Turner Bros. dry goods store which was recently purchased from the Carmichael heirs, will be a thing of the past. The stock has been disposed of at private sale. The firm will go into the hardware business at Glenwood.

UNUSUAL HONOR FOR LOCAL MAN

Falls to the Lot of James E. Watson, a Plain Citizen, to Wind up
Session of Congress.

SON OF INDIANA IS PROMINENT

Aldrich Passes Task to Crane Who Gives Job to Former Whip of House.

An unusual honor was thrust upon Mr. Watson, according to the Washington staff correspondent of the Indianapolis Star in the following dispatch of yesterday:

"Jim" Watson of Indiana is a mighty handy man. His latest and most remarkable performance is winding up the present session of congress.

Never before, since the days of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, did it fall to the lot of a plain citizen of the United States, without any official designation or title, to wind up a session of congress. Probably if the American republic should last as long as the civilization of ancient Egypt the responsibility of winding up another session of congress would not fall to an outsider.

It happened in this way:

Senator Aldrich, who usually attends to those details himself, was unexpectedly called to New York by the serious illness of his son, who had been stricken with typhoid fever and taken to one of the hospitals there. He left Senator Murray Crane of Massachusetts to represent him in bringing about arrangements for the close of congress.

Senator Crane is serviceable and adjustable under all circumstances, but in this case he tackled a job that was strange to him and he didn't exactly know how to go about it. After sputtering around like a fish in a hot skillet for twenty-four hours he showed up bright and early one morning at Mr. Watson's apartment at the Portland.

He is a man of few words. "Jim," he said, "when do you want to wind up this thing?" "Wind up what, senator?" asked the Indiana man.

"Why, Congress, of course," replied the statesman from the bean-eating commonwealth.

Mr. Watson replied that he wasn't a member of congress and probably would not have much to say about the arrangement for adjournment, but Senator Crane pooh-poohed the suggestion.

"Uncle Joe's too busy to take the matter up and he'll do exactly what you say," said Senator Crane. "Now suppose we fix a time for adjournment right here and then all hands will work for it."

Once more Mr. Watson suggested that as a "winder-up" of congress he probably would not be a success, since he did not have the honor of belonging to the lawmaking body, but he said that he would try. He thought it would be best first to call on his successor as House whip, Representative Dwight, and also on Speaker Cannon and get the "day of the land" in the House.

Senator Crane conceded this was proper. Mr. Watson went to the House, interviewed Cannon and Dwight, saw several of the insurgents and reported back to Crane that as far as the House was concerned congress would be ready to adjourn by Saturday, June 25. Senator Crane expressed his thanks and the machinery was put in motion for adjournment and the date suggested by the plain, untitled citizen from Indiana.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine.

Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to INSIST upon such knowledge. So he publishes, broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies it under oath. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and derangements, giving rise to frequent headache, backache, dragging-down pain or distress and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nerve and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

It's foolish and often dangerous to experiment with new or but slightly tested medicines—sometimes urged upon the afflicted as "just as good" or better than "Favorite Prescription." The dishonest dealer sometimes insists that he knows what the proffered substitute is made of, but you don't and it is decidedly for your interest that you should know what you are taking into your stomach and system expecting it to act as a curative. To him it's only a difference of profit. Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Is Rule or Ruin Mr. Bryan's Policy

William J. Bryan is very active this year in the work of destroying the Democratic party, says the Washington Post.

Matters were looking very well in Ohio a few weeks ago. Then Mr. Bryan got busy and started a division that threatens to nullify the efforts of all broad-minded Democrats to hold the party together and carry the State.

Factional strife among the Republicans in some congressional districts afforded an opportunity for Democratic success until Mr. Bryan interfered. He is trying to prevent the return to Congress of Democrats who are not subservient to his ambitions. No doubt he will scatter enough discord in some districts to accomplish his purpose. He is a past master in the art of stirring up strife in his own party.

What does Mr. Bryan want? What is his purpose? Is it rule or ruin the Democratic party?

Time and bitter defeat three times administered ought to have taught Mr. Bryan that he can not be elected President. There is no credit for him in running the Democratic party in his own behalf. He can not win. Other men, true Democrats, would have stood aside after such great disasters and sacrificed their personal ambitions for the sake of their party. Mr. Bryan's plan is to ruin the party if it will not serve his interests. If any Democrat appears to be gaining national popularity he finds Mr. Bryan on his back, knifing him. Governor Johnson felt the effect of Bryan's jealousy, and now Governor Harmon feels it. There must be no Democratic god but Bryan. Rather let the party be destroyed and Republicans placed in power forever than permit Democrats rally around a man who could win.

The Democratic party suffers untold injury from the assaults by Mr. Bryan upon good men within the party. The party can not be expected to unite and do strong battle if it is continually distracted by its fire in the rear. Not only is the party divided in presidential contests, but its usefulness in the House and Senate is impaired by Mr. Bryan's attacks upon Democrats who are doing their best to build up a strong and united party. Thus the political ammunition that might be prepared during session of Congress for use in presidential campaigns is lost. Democrats can not afford to devote all their time to their party when compelled to fight off Mr. Bryan's attacks. Some of the most brilliant men in the party—the more brilliant the better targets they make for Bryan—are facing defeat not because they can not stand up against Republican competitors, but because these competitors are in effect reinforced by Mr. Bryan.

TEACHES CORRECT SPEECH

One Woman Supplies a Need and Makes a Good Living.

A woman of culture and travel has made a glorious success teaching correct speech. It is surprising how much incorrect speech there is among our educated people. They cling to provincialism, incorrect pronunciations, wrong use of words, and unmusical intonations. The Southerner holds to the soft, r-less utterance of his "mammy" days; the Middle-westerner flattens all his vowels; the Bostonian throws his r's completely out of joint. This woman undertook to correct such errors and teach a pure, perfect, English speech to a few young women. She became so successful that she was compelled to start a school of correct English which has grown to great proportions. This practically promising field is open in every town in America—The Delineator for July.

Farmers' Schools Over State

Announcement was made yesterday by Prof. George I. Christie, superintendent of the agricultural extension department of the Purdue University experiment station, that arrangements have just been completed for six large farmers' short course schools to be conducted this coming winter in large cities of Indiana. All of the short courses will be of one week's duration and will be practically identical in scope with the annual corn school held each January at Purdue University. Last season an experiment was tried and a short course like the one at Purdue was conducted at Evansville. The result was a great success of unexpected proportions for the project and as a result six others were arranged for next season in addition to the big course at Purdue. The cities selected for these short courses are Terre Haute, South Bend, Muncie, Huntington, Richmond and Evansville. Each one is expected to cover the area of the congressional district in which each of the cities is located. It is confidently expected that nearly 3,000 people will be enrolled at each of the schools. Prof. Christie announces that the first of the short course will be that at South Bend, which will be held December 7 to 12. The rest will come after the Purdue short course and all of them will be in January and February. The date selected for the annual short course at Purdue is January 12 to 16. As soon as possible after this the short courses at Richmond, Terre Haute, Evansville, Huntington and Muncie will be held. The Purdue experiment station and agricultural department will furnish a corps of instructors for each of the courses and every department of the work will be in charge of experts. Prof. Christie will have general jurisdiction over the schools.

DOMESTIC SERVICE FOR MEN.

There are today few occupations a young man can take up without fear of a woman's taking the bread out of his mouth. These are: prize-fighting, ladies' tailoring, and—do not sneer, young man!—DOMESTIC SERVICE! Even prize-fighting may be closed to men tomorrow, if some strong-armed Vassar graduate should decide to capture the championship-belt. Ladies' tailoring may entice him at any time. But it becomes evident that one field will never again have a woman occupant—go into general housework, solve the servant-problem, and save the American home!

There is no reason why young American men should not make ideal servant-girls, yet preserve independence. The bookkeeper works from eight till six. His meager wages must pay board and lodging and clothe him. What a life! But the general housework girl in a small family—what does she have to do but cook a few meals, clean a few rooms, after a fashion, and collect thirty dollars a month? Not a penny for expenses, a nice room, plenty of clothes given her, and every Thursday and Sunday out! Young men, it is easy. What preparation is needed? Nothing; anybody can learn to cook in a week. Capital? A trunk and a written reference readily obtainable from any employment office.

And, think of the happy lives you can make by your charming little culinary surprises. Then, when the family go away for the summer, they take you with them, or—you have the whole flat to yourself, and everything free! Young men, it is a vision of happiness!

Who knows, too, but that your employer's daughter may fall in love with you?

Young men, domestic service is worth considering—an open field, and man can make his mark in it. Why not be a pioneer?—Delineator for July.

Making Towns to Order

It is expected that the next eighteen months will see the culmination of one of the greatest colonization movements in history, for during that time it is schemed to build and populate 220 towns in the Dominion of Canada, an average of one town for every other week day in that year and a half! By the middle of 1911, if Canadian government officials are not wrong in their estimate, these 220 towns will have their official places and names on the map of Canada, populations of from one hundred to a thousand people each, and they will have been made largely by good American citizens from over the border.

Never has a more interesting or a more unusual scheme for the development of a country been undertaken than this, and that it will undoubtedly succeed is assured by the fact that both the Government and the great Railroad interests of the Dominion are behind it. Recently Andrew D. Davidson, one of the big men of the Canadian Northern, said to me, "I will show you how towns and cities are born, as they have never been born in any country in the world before; I will show you how within a year or two a vast wilderness, a thousand miles of width, it is to be populated, so that from one town you will almost be able to see the smoke of the next."

On the new Grand Trunk Pacific westward from Winnipeg, a distance of 960 miles, a new town is to be located during the next year and a half at a distance of every eight miles, or 120 towns for the total distance. Most of these towns are already marked on the construction maps and the majority of them are named. On the mountain division of the same road, which it to terminate at Prince Rupert on the Pacific, thirty-five new towns are to be platted. On the main line and branches of the Canadian Northern in Saskatchewan and Alberta thirty new towns are to be brought into existence, and on the Canadian Pacific in the same provinces thirty-five, a total of 220 in all!

The history of these towns is to be unlike that of any other in existence. They are not to be merely platted and named, and then left to vegetate. They are to be forced into life. That is the remarkable thing about them. And this is neither a guess nor a hope. It is the result of a "game of town-building," which has been played out by the government as carefully as one might play a game of chess. July Technical World.

AN OLD-TIME PRESCRIPTION

In a modern product. From time immemorial sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost every one knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair and making it grow. In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready to use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. Such a preparation is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, which is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or which is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

WANT ADS BRING RESULTS

The Hatpin in Court

In a large, if not the largest metropolis of the West, an ordinance was recently drafted by the assistant city counsel and introduced into the council chamber to be passed by the city's elected representatives regulating the length of women's hatpins. The ordinance made the hatpin wearer an offender if the point of the hatpin protruded more than half an inch from either side, top, back or front of the hat. The maximum penalty for the violation of the ordinance was a fine of $50.

Over in Paris and London in various museums are cases containing women's apparel of bygone ages. Tourists pause before peculiarly shaped shoes, freakish head-dresses, queer looking gowns and wonder audibly how women ever could have had so little sense as to wear such things. They pass on with a satisfied virtuous feeling that they are far removed from exhibiting any such lack of sense in dress.

Yet in this twentieth century a city's representative must pass a law to prevent women from jabbing any inoffensive person who may happen to be near them with pins which they carelessly permit to protrude from their hats to a dangerous extent.

Ever since woman has taken to wearing large hats and lengthy hatpins accidents from the protruding ends of the hatpins have been numerous. People have had their faces cut open; others eyes put out. These are actual facts, as the records of hospitals show. The very fact that a law has had to be passed shows how numerous and how serious such accidents have been.

Of course, the thinking woman does not wear her hatpins in this fashion. It is the unthinking woman who does it. But the reflection on woman's good sense from the practice falls, like rain, on the just and the unjust. And while women carry dress and conduct to an extreme that either is ridiculous or must be legislated about, just so long will it be extremely difficult for the workers for women's progress to make headway. The woman who unthinkingly or carelessly does the things that bring ridicule or criticism upon her sex is retarding by just so much the coming of the many good things that the pioneers in women's advancement are trying to secure.

The woman who carelessly lets the point of her hatpin stick out two or three inches may not think it a matter of much moment. But she is one of the many who are causing a law to be passed that will be regarded by future generations in the same way that we now look upon the foolish and freakish dress of bygone days.

It is to be hoped that no other city will need to pass the law Chicago has had to pass, and that even in that city the mere passing of the measure will have worked a cure and that there will be no violation of it.

FEW TEARS AT COMMENCEMENT

The American college student is not necessarily lacking in ideals because he has a decent reticence about them. Nor is he necessarily a monster of calousness and ingratitude because his exit from college is not made entirely in tears and his entrance to the market-place sometimes is made with a handspring. After all, graduation is just one more scene in the long and merry comedy called Life! Even at our women's colleges, where commencement is a very grave affair indeed, a jest or two is sometimes played; the high, hopeful spirit of youth triumphs over sentimental solemnity—which proves that girls will be boys!—The Delineator for July.

Congress Will Be Ready to Adjourn This Week.

PROGRAM ABOUT COMPLETED

Despite Forebodings Expressed In Many Quarters a Month Ago, Congress Has Finally Got Together and the Big Administration Measures Are Out of the Way and Adjournment Is Expected Before Saturday.

Washington, June 20.—Although no hard and fast agreement has been reported, it is practically certain that congress will adjourn before next Saturday. Some of the senate and house optimists think that Thursday would be a good guess, but others say Saturday. Acting on these suggestions, many of the rank and file of the house have made Pullman reservations for the end of the week. Everybody in the lower branch of congress seems anxious to get back home and find out how the dear people feel about things.

A good many men in congress who a month or two ago went around moaning to themselves that administration policies were doomed, that all administration bills would fail of passage and that the good old G. O. P. was on the toboggan have awakened in the past week to the fact that they rang the alarm too soon. The railroad bill and the statehood measure are out of the way, the postal savings bank bill in the form in which it passed the house will get by the senate today, and the conservation bill, with a compromise $20,000,000 reclamation bond proposition tacked on it, will go through with a whiz. So, barring a lot of routine, the slate is pretty near clear. Mr. Taft has publicly gone on record in favor of the bill for the publicity of campaign contributions which has passed the house. His wishes, together with the public clamor for the enactment of this legislation, will very likely result in favorable action by the senate upon it. There is some talk in that body of reporting out the house bill with an amendment making the publicity of campaign contributions effective after election and not ten days before, as the bill provides. The anti-injunction measure, another Taft bill, will go over until the next session. Mr. Taft told senate and house leaders a couple of weeks ago to push along the other measures enumerated and let this lie over. There are still a number of bills in conference, including the sundry civil bill, but it is admitted that with an adjournment date agreed on there will be no trouble in closing up these bills in short order. The public building bill was taken up in the house today and will be passed before the body adjourns for the day. This will leave everything in good shape in the house, and it is expected that by the middle of the week some definite agreement on adjournment date will be reached.

Preacher Used a Knife.

Bluefield, W. Va., June 20.—The Rev. D. R. Alexander probably fatally stabbed J. W. Thomas, a saloon keeper at Godfrey, W. Va. The preacher is said to have accused Thomas of improper relations with a member of his congregation. Thomas was slashed four times. Alexander was lodged in jail.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

The Indiana Democratic Editorial Association will hold its summer meeting at French Lick on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Senator Beveridge and President Taft are scheduled to speak at the Winona Bible conference at Winona Lake, Aug. 29 and 30, respectively.

A demonstration against the government of a semi-revolutionary character is reported from San Pedro and other towns in the tobacco district of Honduras.

Congress has increased the appropriation for raising or removing the wreck of the battleship Maine from the harbor of Havana from $100,000 to $300,000.

A fast train on the Illinois Central road struck a bus load of Chicago picnicers returning from a day's outing, killing two of the party and injuring several.

An emigrant train on the O. & W. collided with a light engine at Parker, N. Y., and three passengers were killed and twenty-five injured, six of the latter seriously.

Senator Beveridge and Governor Marshall will address the convention of the Indiana State Federation of Labor, which will be held in Lafayette, Sept. 27, 28 and 29.

The statehood bill, granting statehood to both Arizona and New Mexico, having passed both houses of congress, now only awaits the president's signature to become a law.

There are 754,972 children of school age in Indiana, a gain over last year of 5,668, according to the enumeration figures received from the office of the superintendent of public instruction.

William and Alfred Greenwood, aged twelve and ten, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., while on their way to Sunday school, stopped to play on the railway tracks, when they were struck by an express train and killed.

THE ROOSEVELT WEDDING

Eldest Son of Former President Marries New York Girl.

New York, June 20.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Fifth Avenue Baptist church Miss Eleanor Alexander, only daughter of Mrs. Addison Alexander, became the bride of Theodore Roosevelt, jr., eldest son of former President Roosevelt. A fashionable gathering of New York and Washington society witnessed the ceremony.

The young couple have planned to make an extensive tour, after which they will settle down in San Francisco, where Mr. Roosevelt will have charge of a branch of the Hartford Carpet company.

REVIVAL SERVICES ENDED IN TRAGEDY

Parson's Mix It In Pulpit and One Is Slain.

Lexington, Ky., June 20.—One minister is dead and another is in jail as the result of a duel with knives in the pulpit during a revival service at the Rock Creek Baptist church in Whitley county.

The Revs. Robert Vanover and Isaac Perry, both well-known mountain evangelists, had been conducting the meeting. The duel occurred during the hearing of serious charges made against the Rev. Mr. Vanover. He had been tried once before, had been deposed and the church turned over to the Rev. Mr. Perry. Vanover asserted that he had not had a fair hearing at the first trial and asked that he be given another chance to prove his innocence. This was done and it was during that hearing that the fight occurred.

It is said that the Rev. Isaac Perry ran at the Rev. Mr. Vanover while he was in the pulpit. The two men clinched, and while struggling in each other's arms Perry drew a knife. At this juncture Blaine Perry seized Mr. Vanover, it is said, and held him while his brother pulled his knife across Vanover's throat, inflicting a wound from which he succumbed in a short time.

The church was crowded at the time and a wild panic ensued. The two Perrys were quickly arrested and hurried to the Williamsburg jail. After an investigation the authorities found evidence implicating eight other persons besides the Rev. Isaac Perry and his brother in the killing. They were not ready to announce whether this evidence showed a conspiracy to do away with the Rev. Vanover or whether the unnamed persons became implicated after the fight started.

At the Louisville aviation meet Glen H. Curtiss broke his own world's record for a short start by rising from the ground after his machine had traversed 87½ feet after the machine had been released by the mechanics.

THE COLONEL IS VERY RETICENT

Interviewers Get Rebuff at Sagamore Hill.

JUST A PLAIN PRIVATE CITIZEN

Aside From His Bi-Weekly Calls at the Office of His Paper, the Returning Traveler Will Insist on the Same Measure of Privacy as Any Ordinary American Citizen Is Entitled to, and Would Not Talk About Africa.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 20.—Privacy—that's the word. Absolute, impenetrable, double-riveted, non-leakable, continuous and all pervasive privacy, with only two loopholes awake. That was the gist of a very courteous but very crisp few moments of conversation on the part of Colonel Roosevelt Sunday. What he does, how he amuses himself, whom he receives, these and several items about which the public has been accustomed to have a fair working knowledge are to become known only at the bi-weekly chats which he will submit to. And those are to be held in the offices of the Outlook, where he will begin his editorship in person on Wednesday next.

But notwithstanding this reticence in details, the colonel made no effort to convey the impression that in his capacity as a private citizen he has abjured the society of public men. Sunday he had been associating with two persons who have a hand in the government. Senator Lodge was a guest at Sagamore Hill over Sunday, and in the afternoon Secretary of the Navy Meyer dropped in by way of the Dolphin and Long Island Sound for an evening's talk over the teacups and even later. Whether it will become known who are the visitors of note who visit him later is purely problematical.

These impressions were gained at sunset when the ex-president came out on his veranda to receive several inquiring callers. His last word to them in answer to a question about his African trip was this:

"I shan't have anything to say, ever." The colonel began his protests of reticence as soon as he came within hearing distance.

"Now, gentlemen," said he, "I really haven't anything to say on any subject whatever. I don't want to have anybody get in the habit of coming to me with the idea that I am going to talk, for I'm not going to do it at all. Twice a week I intend to go in to New York, and I will be at the Outlook office there. That is the only place that I shall receive callers who want me to say anything."

"What are your plans for the next few days," he was asked. "Beyond going into town tomorrow morning for my son's wedding and on Wednesday for my first visit to the Outlook office since I have been back, I haven't anything to tell."

Senator Lodge was around the corner of the porch with Secretary Meyer, and their propinquity inspired the next question, which was: "Can you tell us what you have been doing today, colonel?"

"Now that," he burst out with some enthusiasm, "is just the kind of a question that I don't want to answer. My life here from now on is to be private. If I keep telling about these things the result would be that I should not have any peace, rest or vacation at all. I should be overrun all the time."

"Won't you tell us what you thought of your reception," put in someone in a spirit of bravado.

Mr. Roosevelt shook his head at first, then he widened his smile a trifle and finally said: "I guess you ought to know what I thought of that."

"How about the trophies that are expected here; when do you expect to unpack?"

"No, no," laughed the colonel, "not a word."

"Isn't there anything about that African trip that you want to add to what you have said already?"

Here came the answer that fairly bowled over his hearers:

"No, I shan't have anything to say, ever."

Whether he meant literally what this implied, or whether it was merely designed to convey the inference that the summer at Sagamore Hill with all the visitors for whom the colonel will be at home, will be spent as quietly as possible.

Secretary of State Knox has given out a statement that at the earnest wish of President Taft he will remain in the cabinet and not allow the use of his name for governor of Pennsylvania.

BUILDING BILL GIVES INDIANA HALF MILLION

How the Hoosier State Fares In "Pork Barrel."

Washington, June 20.—The final draft of the omnibus building bill as completed by the committee on public buildings and grounds, was introduced in the house by Representative Bartholdt, chairman of the committee.

There were some final readjustments of the Indiana items by the revision committee and at the last moment an appropriation for a site at Washington, Ind., was included. The bill as completed and introduced contains thirteen appropriations for Indiana, and the combined total of the Hoosier items in the bill is $554,500.

Following is the list of Indiana appropriations in the final draft of the bill:

City and purpose.	Amount.
Bloomington, increase limit....	$ 15,000
Brazil, increase limit.....	12,000
Wabash, increase limit.....	15,000
New Albany, enlargement....	35,000

Seymour, site and building....	60,000
Huntington, site.....	20,000
Mt. Vernon, site and building..	7,500
Washington, site and building..	10,000

Total$554,500

An effort is being made to include an appropriation for a building at Elwood.

Caught at the Crossing.

Youngstown, O., June 20.—Lewis Stahl, forty-five years old, and his wife, Elizabeth Stahl, aged forty-one, were instantly killed by an eastbound Pennsylvania passenger train near Niles, Sunday. They were on their way to church in a covered buggy, which was struck by the train at an open crossing. Their daughter Elizabeth, seventeen years old, suffered a broken leg. The horses escaped injury.

Train Crashed Into Depot.

Logansport, Ind., June 20.—When a Vandallia freight train "pulled" a drawbar while passing through Flora ten cars were derailed, two of them crashing into the station, almost completely demolishing the building.

Should Comply With Rules

Postoffices, while operated by the United States government, have trials as well as private institutions. One of the worst difficulties with which the postoffice has to combat is the failure or negligence of the rural route patrons to place their names on the mail boxes. To the regular carrier it involves no special hardship because he is familiar with all the names along the line and knows where each patron resides, because he travels the road almost every day and has a chance to learn the residences of all.

This is not so with the substitute who must be able to take any of the several different routes leading from the city. He makes a trip perhaps once a week or may be once a month and probably each trip is over a different route. By such irregularity he has no chances to become familiar with all the residences of each of the routes which cover a territory of from twenty to thirty miles each.

If the patron's name is not plainly lettered upon this box, the substitute is greatly handicapped and often makes errors which might easily be avoided if the patrons would observe the requirements of the department.

Telephone Girls as Wives

Forty-eight per cent. of the telephone girls in Milwaukee marry within a year, if a monthly average can be taken as a basis. June 1 fourteen telephone operators, or 4 per cent. of 329 quit work to be married.

"The telephone girls makes the best wives in the world," said George C. French, district manager of the Wisconsin Telephone Company. "The girls have to be punctual, must have tact in handling cranky subscribers, must have judgment and learn to control their tempers. One of our girls married a man with an income of $10,000 a year, and very many of them have married men earning from $3,000 to $5,000."

"After a girl has been on a switchboard a while she begins to know men, their habits, and their dispositions, and if a girl is pleasant she is sure to attract some man by the way she handles his messages."

A Graftless Town

A graftless town, or what the promoters hope will be a town free from graft, for there will be no public officials, is being built on the Kentucky side of the Ohio river opposite Evansville. The town is laid out and several buildings are now being built.

J. A. Brown, the builder, whose home is in New York, has just made his plans public. He is financially backed by Mrs. Kate Hawley, a philanthropist of New York City, and James Crawford, a leading capitalist of Terre Haute, Indiana. He says these backers want him to build the most modern town in all the world, where people will live in happiness and abide by the golden rule. In a few days Brown will have several hundred teams grading the streets. Work has started on the town coliseum, the electric light plant and a large tobacco factory.

According to Brown, the town will never have any public officials and graft will be impossible. Once a week all the residents of the town will gather in the coliseum and bring to trial all persons charged with crimes and misdemeanors. The people will vote on the guilt or innocence of the accused. All public utilities will be owned by the people and they will share in the profits. Free transportation will be furnished the people employed in the town to and from Evansville. There will be no saloons. There will be a publicity station where a man will read the newspapers to the people.

Waltz Slow, the Motto

After disposing of the momentous question of time in waltzes by deciding that it should be fifty-five measures to the minute, the American National Association of Dancing Masters, in this annual meeting held in New York City last week, discussed the waltz in general.

The great trouble with the waltz, said one member of the association was that when it was played too fast dancers were apt to job along at half time doing what really should be known as a redowa and not a waltz at all. Then the Boston, with the variations that young men of higher education were prone to practice, had further harmed the pure type. This gentleman was disposed to put all dancers in three groups: The classy folks, the eminently respectable ones, and the spieler. From the second group you could get the most normal ideas and they are the ones who make waltzing in this country more successful than anywhere else in the world.

When these matters of weight had been put out of the way the morning was free for instruction. Those who teach the flossier sort of fancy dancing ran right out on the floor after changing their shoes, when Mme. Elizabeth Menzelli-Bartlett, of New York City, reproduced her idea of a ballet solo. One, two, three steps and a run with a pose at the end; then a couple of twirls with a toe pointed out ahead, and then several hops and a few more runs and after that maybe you could do it.

Unmindful of one another or of any one looking on, and just as serious minded about it as a synod meeting they swept their arms and twinkled their feet over the ballroom floor. Here and there was a young person who could be watched in her dancing without the slightest effort. They kept at it, old and young, graceful and less graceful, until every one was tired and then they went off by themselves and skipped around the corners.

Pretty soon the president whacked his gavel on the stage and said that Louis H. Chalif, graduate of the Imperial School of Russia and pupil of Zorn, would give them his five fundamental positions of the arms and feet. Which he possessed to do and which the dancers did their best to emulate.

Easy enough to explain the letter "B" on the blades of oats that is puzzling Indiana farmers. It means that somebody is going to be buncoed this year.

There is a big difference between Governor Marshall's "traff for revenue only" demand and Joe Bailey's "tariff for public purposes" plank, which was slipped into the Indiana Democratic State platform by the secretive and deceptive Senator Shively.

According to the following from the Shelbyville Republican, the Fifth must be a Hibernian ward: "Our old friend, John C. Cheney, has a rival for the office of prosecuting attorney in the person of Dennis O'Neil of Rushville. If there is anything in a name, Johnny will lose the Fifth ward in this city unless he can cotton to Ed Deitzer. Ed owns the ward, including Sax, and that's sufficient ground for our assertion."

Some of the Democrats in the State are endeavoring to make the people believe that the accusation of John W. Kern regarding the bribery charge is of little importance, but the public will not so regard the matter. It is the popular opinion that the truth should be known, and unless the charge is either proven or corrected Kern will meet with overwhelming defeat. The people of Indiana want men in the United States senate who will stand for the truth and are willing to tell of such charges rather than conceal them.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

NO SHOW FOR DENNIS.

(Shelbyville Republican.)
Democrats in Shelby county will bitterly oppose the selection of any candidate in Rush county for Prosecutor or Judge. The argument is vigorous and unanswerable that the prosecutor has a right to two terms. Besides, Shelby county will do the electing, if a Democrat is successful, and she has a right to name both candidates.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK TRAIN.

(Shelbyville Republican.)
As a result to attempt to wreck Big Four passenger train No. 47, due in this city shortly after 11 o'clock Saturday night, the train pulled into Shelbyville over one-half hour late. While the train was running at a high rate of speed between Adams and St. Paul, a few miles southeast of this city, the pilot struck a cross tie which had been laid across the track at one of the pike crossings. The cross tie was torn to splinters and the fender of the train was damaged. It was necessary to stop the train and make temporary repairs to the engine before the journey was continued. Conductor Bob Gabriel of Indianapolis and Engineer Buckelow were in charge of the train and they sent in a report.

PARTIALLY "SAFE AND SANE."

(Connersville News.)
Although the movement for a safe and sane Fourth was started a little late for definite action this year, the idea has met with marked approval. Even the dealers in fire works have expressed themselves as approving of a restriction that will protect the lives of the children.

A. J. Roth one of the most extensive dealers in our city recently made a general canvass of the business men interested and reports all in favor of suppressing the sale of the more dangerous fireworks. A number of these men have agreed not to sell the cannon cracker to any person under 16 years of age and Mr. Roth has shipped all his cannon crackers in stock, back to the wholesale house. The movement is a little late for definite action on the part of the dealers as they have already laid in their stock and cannot afford to lose on it. However the good women of the city who are so anxious to make the restriction a safe one can feel much encouraged at such gain of ground and the foundation will be well laid for another year. The effort on at present will continue in the insistence that the city authorities see that the ordinance is strictly obeyed. Perhaps the small boy will be careful if he knows how many mothers in Connersville have their eyes on that ordinance. He would also be very thankful to these good women if they could devise some plan for a great pyrotechnic display on the night of the Fourth.

I should like to know the meaning
Of that bird and F. O. E."
He in turn, said "Friend, I'll tell you
All about this F. O. E.
We've no secrets in our order,
All we do is on the square;
Helping out a needy brother,
That is why the badge is there.
Friendship is our hearts desire.
As along through life we drift,
When one falls along the wayside
We extend our hand to lift.
Honest dealing is our password,
Uprightness is all we do.
That's why I so proudly show
That emblem up to public view.
Speaking good words to a brother,
That is part of our great plan;
Making life a bit more pleasant,
Showing all that's good in man;
Always ready with assistance
When it means for brothers' good.
Up above board in all dealings,
Acting just as all men should.
That's the object of the emblem,
Worn upon this coat by me;
And I'm proud that I'm a member
Of that noble F. O. E."

LODGE DECORATION HELD YESTERDAY

Red Men, Odd Fellows, K. of P. and Their Sister Lodges Participate in Decoration.

THE LODGEMEN SHOW LOYALTY

One of the most successful joint lodge decorations ever held, was had yesterday. A large number of Red Men, Odd Fellows and K. of P. assembled at the court house at two o'clock and marched to the cemetery, where they paid homage to the deceased members of their respective orders.

The address of the day was delivered by Cicero Northern of Greensburg, who extolled the American lodge and its decoration day in an eloquent address. Music was furnished by a quartet composed of B. F. Miller, T. A. Craig, F. R. McClanahan and F. M. Sparks. A committee was appointed from the Rebekahs, Pythian Sisters and Degree of Pocahontas, who decorated the graves of their deceased members.

HAS NO FEAR OF HYDROPHOBIA

While getting a drink at the Herbert Dewitt farm, five and one-half miles south of the city Saturday, I. L. Clifford, rural mail carrier, was bitten by a vicious dog. The canine sunk his teeth into the flesh in Mr. Clifford's right leg just above the ankle. When he attempted to kick loose the dog's teeth slipped out and tore the flesh, inflicting a wound about two inches long. Mr. Clifford is forced to limp due to the injury. The dog was a big black Shepherd. It has not been acting strangely and there is no fear of hydrophobia. The canine attacked Mr. Clifford just as he left the pump.

Vast as modern skyscrapers are, not one has yet equaled the weight and massiveness of the pile of great stones which the swarming human ants of the Nile valley laboriously dragged together thousands of years ago, until they had built the Pyramid of Cheops. It would make a solid block of 500 feet square and 330 feet high.

RUSHVILLE TEAM AGAIN THE LOSER

Defeated by Liberty in a Ninth Inning

Rally by the Score of Nine to Eight.

BALL UNMERCIFULLY CLOTTED

The seventh inning hoodoo has moved two innings further ahead with the newly organized Rushville team.

In a game characterized by hard hitting and spectacular fielding Capt. Morgan and his aggregation went down to defeat at Liberty yesterday by the score of 9 to 8. Tompkins and Hendricks both pitched consistently for Rushville with the exception of the fifth and ninth innings. Tompkins was touched up for five runs in the fifth inning, and Hendricks for two in the ninth inning. Morgan and Geraghty led the batting for the home team. Rushville lined up as follows: Morgan, catch; Tompkins and Hendricks, pitch; Combs, first; Gunning, second; Smith, short; Hendricks and Tompkins, third; Geraghty, left; Plummer, center; Mattox, right. Myers and Smith were the batteries for Liberty.

AMUSEMENTS

The Vaudet management offers a good program tonight in the film, "Supreme Recognition." It is said to be taken from real life and portrays a very pleasing and artistic drama. A new illustrated song is on the program.

The Star Grand offers an Essayay subject tonight entitled "The Bandit's Wife." It is a powerful western dramatic subject, one of the most intensely interesting that the western producers have ever offered. Earl Robertson will sing "Any Nice Little Girl."

The Palace theater will have a compete change of program tonight.

County Superintendents See Flaw

And New System Will Make Counties Independent.

STANDARD READING BOOKS

Each county in Indiana hereafter will have its own examinations for entrance into the high schools from the various township schools. In the past it has been the custom for a committee to draft a set of questions which applied to every county in the State. By a resolution of the County Superintendents' Association in session in Indianapolis this week this plan was abolished, and each county was instructed to prepare its own questions. The former scheme was said to be unfair, as the courses and texts in the various counties differed considerably.

Another change made was in connection with the reading work of the eighth grade. Aside from the five prescribed reading books each school has ordinarily done other work in addition, choosing whatever it pleased. This made it difficult, the superintendents say, for any student moving from one county to another to continue his work. On this account the State superintendent was instructed to select nine standard books which shall be for use of all schools in the State. From these the selection of reading will be made hereafter.

CHAPTER II. WHEREIN THE ANDROMEDA BEGINS HER VOYAGE.

THE second officer of the Andromeda was pacing the bridge with the slow alertness of responsibility. He would walk from port to starboard, glance forward and aft, peer at the wide crescent of the starlit sea, stroll back to port and again scan ship and horizon. Sometimes he halted in front of the binnacle lamp to make certain that the man at the wheel was keeping the course, south 15 west, set by Captain Coke shortly before midnight. His ears listened mechanically to the steady pulse beat of the propeller, but his mind dwelt on something far removed from his duties, though, to be sure, every poet who ever scribbled four lines of verse has found rhyme and reason in comparing women with stars and ships and the sea.

If Philip Hozier was no poet, he was a sailor, and sailors are notoriously susceptible to the charms of the softer sex. But the only woman he loved was his mother; the only bride he could look for during many a year was a mermaid, though these sprites of the deep waters seem to be frequenting undiscovered haunts since mariners ceased to woo the wind. For all that, if perforce he was heart whole, there was no just cause or impediment why he should not admire a pretty girl when he saw one, and an exceedingly pretty girl had honored him with her company during a brief minute of the previous day.

He was superintending the safe disposal of the last batch of cotton goods in the forward hold when a young lady, accompanied by a deck laborer carrying a leather portmanteau, spoke to him from the quay.

"Is Captain Coke on board?" said she.

"No, madam," said he, lifting his cap with one hand.

"I am Mr. Verity's niece, and I wish to send this parcel to Montevideo. May I put it in some place where it will be safe? You are Mr. Hozier, I suppose?" said Iris, gazing with frank brown eyes into his frank blue ones. "Well, I will just pop the bag into Captain Coke's stateroom and leave this note with it. I have explained everything fully. I wrote a line in case he might be absent."

All of which was so strictly accurate that it served its purpose admirably, though the said purpose, it is regrettable to state, was the misleading and utter bamboozling of Philip Hozier. Miss Iris Yorke knew quite well that Captain Coke was then closeted with David Verity in Exchange buildings. She knew because she had watched him pass through the big swing doors of her uncle's office. She also knew, having made it her business to find out, that in fifteen minutes or less the crew would muster in the fo'c'sle for their midday meal. Not having heard a word of Hozier's free speech to the gentlemen of various nationalities at the bottom of the hold, she wondered why he was blushing.

When Hozier was free to glance a second time at the cross rail Iris had

He was annoyed. Evidently he did not wish to encounter any more of the ship's officers that morning.

The hatches were on and everything was orderly before Coke's squat figure climbed the gangway. Hozier reported the young lady's visit, and the skipper was obviously surprised. As he hoisted himself up the steep ladder to the hurricane deck the younger man heard him condemning "some one under his breath as a leery old beggar." The phrase was hardly applicable to Iris, but Coke came out of his cabin with an open letter in his hand and bade a steward stow the portmanteau in some other more hallowed and less inconvenient place.

And there the incident ended. The Andromeda hauled down the blue peler for her long run of over 6,000 miles to Montevideo, and Hozier had routine work in plenty to occupy his mind during the first twenty-four hours at sea without perplexing it with memories of a pretty face. Soon after Holyhead was passed, it is true, a sailor reported to the second officer that he had seen a ghost between decks in the region of the lazarette. It was then near midnight, a quiet hour on board ship, and Hozier told the man sharply to go to his bunk and endeavor to sleep off the effects of the bad beer imbibed earlier in the day.

Now, on this second night of the voyage, while the ship was plodding steadily southward with that fifteen point inclination to the west that would take her far into the Atlantic soon after daybreak, Philip remembered Mr. Verity's niece and felt sorry that when she paid former visits to the Andromeda fate had decreed that he should be serving his time on another vessel. It gave him a thrill when he heard that this charming girl knew his name, and it seemed to him for an instant that she was looking into his very soul, analyzing him, searching for some sign that he was not as others, which meant that there were some whom she had blither cause to distrust.

At any rate, she had left a memento of her too brief appearance on board in the shape of the bag. He would contrive to take on his own shoulders its mission in Montevideo. Then on returning to Liverpool he would have an excuse for calling on her. He did not know her name yet. Possibly Captain Coke would mention that interesting fact when his temper lost its raw edge.

It was strange that he should be thinking of Iris, far stranger than he could guess, but his thoughts were subconscious, and he was in nowise neglecting the safety of the ship.

Hozier heard Coke reading the riot act to the shellbacks who were supposed to keep a sharp lookout ahead. But the captain did not monopolize the conversation. His deep notes rumbled only at intervals. The men had something to say. He returned to the bridge.

"One of them scallywags sez 'e 'as seen a ghost," he announced with the calm air of a man who states that the moon will rise during the next hour.

"Oh, is he the man who reported a ghost outside the lazarette last night?" "I s'pose so. Did 'e tell you about it? That's where she walks."

"She?" "That's his yarn—a female ghost, a black 'un, black clo'es anyhow. I'll take the forenoon watch, an' you might overhaul the ship for stow-aways after breakfast."

"Yes, sir," said Hozier. And that is how it fell to his lot to discover Iris Yorke, looking very white and miserable, when the hatch of the lazarette was broken open at half past 8 on Thursday morning.

A tramp steamer is not a complex organism. She is made up of holds, bunkers, boilers and engines, with scanty accommodation for officers and crew grouped round the funnel or stuck in the bows. When the boats were stripped of their tarpaulins and a few lockers and storerooms examined the only available niding places were the shaft tunnel, the holds and the lazarette, a small space between decks, situated directly above the propeller, where a reserve supply of provisions is generally carried.

But the door of the lazarette was locked and the key missing. There was nothing for it but to force the lock.

It was dark in there, and Hozier was undeniably startled by the spectacle of a slim figure, wrapped in a long ulster, standing among the cases and packages.

"Now, out you come," he cried, with a gruffness that was intended only to cover his own amazement, but Iris, despite the horrors of seasickness and confinement in the dark was not minded to suffer what she considered to be impertinence on the part of a second officer.

"I am Miss Yorke," she said, coming forward into the half light of the lower deck. "Any explanation of my presence here will be given to the captain and to no other person."

That innocent word "person" is capable of many meanings. Hozier felt that its application to himself was distinctly unfavorable. And Iris was quite dignified and self possessed. She had given a few deft touches to her hair.

"Of course I did not know to whom I was speaking," he managed to say, for he now recognized the "ghost" and was more surprised than he had ever been in his life before.

"That is matterless," said Iris frigidly. "Where is Captain Coke?"

"On the bridge," said Philip.

"I will go to him. Please don't come with me. I tried to tell you that I would unlock the door, but you refused to listen. Will you let me pass?"

He obeyed in silence.

Iris hurried to the deck. The light seemed to dazzle her, and her steps were so uncertain that Hozier sprang forward and caught her arm.

"Won't you sit down a moment, Miss Yorke?" he said. "If you searched the whole ship you could not have chosen a worse place to travel in than the lazarette."

"I was driven out twice at night by the rats," she gasped.

"Too bad!" he whispered. "But it was your own fault. Why did you do it? At any rate, wait here a few minutes before you meet the captain."

"I am not afraid of meeting him. Why should I be? He knows me."

"I meant only that you are hardly able to walk, but I seem to say the wrong thing every time. There is nothing really to worry about. We are not far from Queenstown. We can put you ashore there by losing 'half a day."

The girl had been ill, racked in body and distraught in mind, but she summoned a half laugh at his words.

"You are still saying the wrong thing, Mr. Hozier," she murmured.

"The Andromeda will not put into Queenstown. From this hour I become a passenger, not a stowaway. My uncle knows now that I am here. Thank you. You need not hold me any longer. I have quite recovered. Captain Coke is on the bridge, you said? I can find my way. This ship is no stranger to me."

And away she went, justifying her statements by tripping rapidly forward. The mere sight of her created boundless excitement among such members of the crew as were on deck.

When she reached the bridge, where Captain Coke was propped against the chart house, she had lost a good deal of the pallor and woebegone semblance that had demoralized Hozier.

Coke heard the rapid, light footsteps and turned his head. Certainly he could not have been more stupefied had he seen the ghost reported overnight.

"They told me I should find you here, captain," said she. "I must apologize for thrusting my company on you for a long voyage, but—circumstances—were—too much for me—and—"

Face to face with the commander of the ship and startled anew by his expression of blank incredulity, the glib flow of words coned so often during the steadfast but dreadful hours spent in the lazarette failed her.

"You know me," she faltered. "I am Iris Yorke."

Not a syllable came from the irate and astonished man gazing at her with such bovine stolidity. His shoulders had not abated a fraction of their stubborn thrust against the frame of the chart house. His hands were immovable in the pockets of his reefer coat. Had he wished to terrify her by a hostile reception he could not have succeeded more completely, though, to be just, he meant nothing of the sort, his wits being jumbled into chaos by the apparition of the last person then alive whom he expected or desired to see on board the Andromeda.

But Iris could not interpret his mood, and she strove vainly to conquer the fear welling up in her breast because of the grim anger that seemed to blaze at her from every line of Coke's brick red countenance. In the struggle to pour forth the excuses and protestations that sounded so plausible in her own ears, while secured from observation behind the locked door of her retreat, she blundered unhappily on to the very topic that she had resolved to keep secret.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done! Now you would not willingly pay for food that was worthless—would you? Then why pay for medicine until that medicine first proves to you its actual worth?

Positively knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick, I say to all "don't pay unless health first returns". And I back my Restorative with a signed and sealed 30 day "No help, No pay" contract.

I positively pledge to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the same—or else pass their prescriptions by.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative a few days and note the immediate improvement.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys go wrong, then test Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I do not dose the Stomach nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. Years ago I cast away that mistaken idea in medicine. The books below will best tell you how I am succeeding.

These books also tell of a tiny hidden "inside nerve," no larger than a silken thread. They tell how that nerve, until it fails, actually gives to the Heart its power, its tone, its never-ending action or impulse.

These books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. They tell how the Stomach, and Kidneys each have their "inside" or power nerves. They tell how the Restorative was especially made to reach and revitalize these weak or failing inside nerves. All of these facts tell why I am able to say "it is free if it fails".

This is why I say "take no chance on a medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the order.

I have appointed honest and responsible druggists in nearly every community to issue my medicines to the sick.

But write me first for the order.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line please—and thus save disappointment and delays. Tell me also which book you need.

A postal will do.

Besides, you are free to consult me as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

THE WHITE ROSE OF THE MIAMIS

Frances Slocum's Life Romance Is Recalled.

MONUMENT TO HER UNVEILED

Action of a Pennsylvania Society of the Daughters of the Revolution Revises the Oft-Told Tale of the Young Girl Who Was Captured and Reared by Indians, and Who Spent Her Last Days Willingly With Them.

Peru, Ind., June 20.—Scranton (Pa.) Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution has just dedicated and given to the city of Scranton a monument to the memory of Frances Slocum, who is buried seven miles south-east of Peru, and to whose memory there was erected some years ago a handsome bronze monument at her grave and upon it is inscribed a brief history of her capture by the Indians and her life with them.

The monument at Scranton was also erected to the memory of the captive's father, Ebenezer Slocum, the first pioneer settler of Lackawanna valley.

The story of Frances Slocum reads like fiction. Her life, after she had been stolen by the Delaware Indians in 1775, was one of comparative ease and some comfort, so much so, in fact, that when she was finally found by her brothers in 1837, in her hut south-east of this city, she absolutely refused to go back to Pennsylvania with them. Broken-hearted, the brothers, who had searched for more than half a century for their sister, departed from the presence of their sister, and never again did they see her.

She was a child five years old when stolen, and a decrepit woman, the weight of sixty-two years in the vast wilderness bearing down upon her, when found by her brothers. In her childhood she was the pride of the Delaware and every comfort and attention available was given her. So it was also when she became the bride of She-pe-can-ah, a Miami Indian, and she was called the "White Rose of the Miamis." The tribe lived southeast of Peru, and it was there that a trapper named Ewing, who had read the story of her capture by the Indians, found her. He wrote the story of his discovery to the Harrisburg (Pa.) papers and soon afterward the gray-haired Slocum brothers started on their long journey westward through the wilderness to this locality. In childhood play one of the brothers had chopped a finger off Frances's left hand, and the absence of the finger led to the woman's identification. She died eleven years afterward.

THE LORIMER CASE

Senate Committee Will Investigate It During Vacation.

Washington, June 20.—Charges that bribery of members of the Illinois legislature figured in the election of William Lorimer to the United States senate will be investigated by the senate committee on privileges and elections. Chairman Burrows reported a resolution instructing the committee to conduct the inquiry during vacation of congress.

The members of the committee wanted the resolution to specify that the investigation should proceed at once, but it has been the unvarying custom of the senate not to interfere or embarrass proceedings when any phase of the subject of inquiry was pending before the courts. The fact that charges against certain members of the Illinois legislature are now before the courts will delay this inquiry, but it is the understanding that a report will be made at the beginning of the next session of congress in December.

How He Ended Long Spree.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 20.—Despondent as a result of a long spree, Henry Bruner, a carpenter, carefully planned suicide, which he carried out in a unique manner. He dug a hole between the rails on the Southern Indiana tracks south of the city and filled the hole with paper. He stood at the side of the track until a train came, and as it passed he threw himself under it so that his head was severed and fell into the paper-lined hole.

Fatal Auto Accident.

Marion, Ind., June 20.—Miss Cleo Shaffer, fourteen years old, daughter of George Shaffer, a well-known Huntington county farmer, was instantly killed and seven others were injured when an automobile in which they were riding turned over, Sunday evening, on a country road six miles north of Warren.

Tumble Probably Fatal.

Bedford, Ind., June 20.—William Spaulding, a bridge carpenter residing in Bedford, while at work on a Monon trestle, lost his footing and fell a distance of twenty-eight feet. He was picked up unconscious with several broken bones and concussion of the brain and will probably die.

Bat's Fatal Blow.

Laporte, Ind., June 20.—Charles E. Moran, aged twenty-five, a baseball catcher, is dead from injuries received in a game. While catching Moran was struck with a bat.

JOSE MADRIZ.

President of Nicaragua, Whom Insurgents Seek to Oust.

SECRETARY OF STATE REAFFIRMS POSITION

Uncle Sam's Compliments to Senor Madriz.

Washington, June 20.—Secretary of State Knox has forwarded to Jose De Oliveras, American consul at Managua, a reply to the message sent to Mr. Taft by Senor Madriz, president of the de facto government at Managua, protesting against the actions of Commander Gilmer, commanding the gunboat Paducah and senior naval officer in Central American waters. In his complaint to Mr. Taft Senor Madriz took exception in the recent action of Commander Gilmer in preventing the bombardment of and fighting within the city of Bluefields; to the recognition by Mr. Knox of the right of the Estrada faction to move the customs house from the bluff to the city proper at Bluefields, and to the interference by Commander Gilmer with the blockade which the Madriz gunboat Venus attempted to fix there.

In reply Secretary Knox sent a message to Mr. Oliveras stating that the policy of the United States remains as set forth in the secretary of state's letter of Dec. 1, 1909, to Mr. Rodriguez, then charge d'affaires, whereby relations with the Zelaya government were broken off. That letter and statements of the consistent application of the same policy to conditions as they arose were duly published. "As to the statements made in the telegram of Dr. Madriz to the president," continues the secretary, "the government of the United States took only the customary step of prohibiting bombardment or fighting by either party in the unfortified and ungarrisoned commercial city of Bluefields, thus protecting the American and other foreign interests, just as the British commander had done at Greytown, where there are large British interests."

"The government of the United States has acknowledged the right of each faction to maintain a blockade, but has refused to permit vessels illegally and clandestinely entering American waters to interfere with our commerce."

BLOODY BATTLE

Eleven Men Use Clubs, Knives and Guns in Kentucky Fracas.

Danville, Ky., June 20.—Two men were mortally wounded and two others dangerously hurt in a fight at Cartersville, Girard county. According to reports that reached here, eleven men took part in the battle, which was waged with clubs, knives and guns. Link Lake and Christopher Woolven are said to have been mortally hurt, and Leonard Van Winkle and Curtis Woolven are seriously wounded. All others who participated in the fight received bruises of some sort. A grudge between the Woolvens and Van Winkles is said to have been the underlying cause of the fracas.

Want to Enlarge on His Program. Indianapolis, June 20.—The definite announcement that Mr. Taft will deliver an address at Winona Lake the latter part of August has caused the Republican leaders to urge him to make three other speeches in the state while out west, one in this city, one at Fort Wayne and one at Evansville.

The general deficiency bill as it passed the house appropriates nearly $6,000,000.

HEED THE WARNING

Many Rushville People Have Done So.

When the kidneys are sick they give unmistakable warning that should not be ignored. By examining the urine and treating the kidneys upon the first sign of disorder, many days of suffering may be saved. Sick kidneys expel a dark, ill-smelling urine, full of "brickdust" sediment and painful in passage. Sluggish kidneys cause a dull pain in the small of the back, headaches, dizzy spells, tired, languid feelings and frequently rheumatic twinges.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only; they cure sick kidneys, and rid the blood of uric poison. If you suffer from any of the above symptoms you can use no better remedy.

Rushville people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

O. P. Wellman, 123 West Third street, Rushville, Ind., my kidneys and my back was so lame that I could not lift. When I read that Doan's Kidney Pills were a specific for headache and other symptoms of kidney trouble, I got a box at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store. The first few doses relieved me and it was not long before the pain in my back had entirely disappeared. I can strongly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Don't Spoil Your Clothes.

Use Red Cross Ball Blue and keep them white as snow. All grocers, 5 cents a package.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the heart and kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the heart or kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once and see! Sold by Frank E. Wolcott.

Skin Disease Readily Cured by Simple Home Remedy.

OLD FRIENDS ENJOY THE DAY

Twelfth Annual Renunion of Rush-Fayette County People, Rare Occasion for Visiting.

MANY LOCAL PEOPLE ATTEND

Held in Brookside Park in Indianapolis Yesterday—Old Rivalry Still Exists.

All of the I. & C. traction cars and railway trains as well were crowded yesterday by the many people who went from here and Connersville yesterday to attend the twelfth annual reunion of the Rush county and Fayette county people. The event has come to be a big one and the crowds grow larger every year. Speeches by former residents of the two counties are the principal attractions and the day is spent visiting with old friends. The Indianapolis Star says of the meeting:

The twelfth annual reunion of the Rush-Fayette folk organization, made up of Indianapolis people formerly of Rush and Fayette counties, was held at Brookside Park yesterday afternoon. Over 300 attended the reunion, which was said to be one of the most successful in the history of the organization.

John E. Smith was elected president; Mrs. W. H. Leedy, vice-president, and Charles F. Hurst, secretary and treasurer. Mr. Hurst, who is Republican nominee for clerk of the Marion Circuit Court, was also chairman of the resolutions committee. A resolution of the death of Thomas Smiley, one of the originators of the reunion, was drawn up and will be presented to the family.

In all the talks made the old rivalry between Rush and Fayette counties was shown. It was decided to make the thirteenth annual meeting and all-day affair, as was suggested by the late Thomas Smiley. A number of people attended the reunion from Rush and Fayette counties.

ALARMED OVER MAN'S CONDITION

It is Feared That Fred Feitig of Near Waldron May Not Recover From Recent Shock.

WANDERED FROM SANITARIUM

Friends and relatives of Fred Feitig of Waldron, are alarmed lest the shock from the experience he underwent a few days ago prove fatal says the Shelbyville Democrat. Mr. Feitig went to Indianapolis one week ago today to take treatment at a sanitarium. Last Tuesday about the noon hour he wandered away and was not found until several hours later. He was exposed to a heavy fall of rain and his condition was extremely critical. He recovered sufficiently to be removed to his home near Waldron Friday.

Dr. Randolph, who has charge of the case, stated that Mr. Feitig's condition was slightly improved today, but that it still remained critical. The attending physician has hopes of restoring his patient to the condition he was in before he passed through the experience at the sanitarium. It was reported that the aged man was suffering from Bright's disease, but this is a mistake, according to Dr. Randolph. His heart and arteries are affected and this is the extent of his ailment. The many friends of the aged man hope that he will enjoy a speedy recovery.

BROILER AND POT ARE IN CONDITION

Are Prepared For Onslaught by the Country Club Steak Supper Parties.

TENNIS PLAYERS NUMEROUS

Once more the broiler is in place and the big range is in the kitchen of the Rushville country club and the coffee pot sends forth its simmering noise from the top of the red hot stove. Steak suppers were very much in vogue last summer and they promise to be much more popular this summer. The season is late, but already several small parties have been held and others are being planned. Mike Peckinpah has been retained again this year and will keep the club house and grounds in condition. The tennis fiends are becoming active and this season has already seen many closely contested games.

CLAIM THEY SAW STRANGE AIR CRAFT

Many Local People Either Sighted an Airship or a Balloon in Sky Yesterday Evening.

ONE SEEN NEAR SULLIVAN, TOO

If all reports, night visions or rumors are true, it is not necessary for local people to journey all the way to Indianapolis to get a view of an airship. Many local people saw an air craft of some kind sail over Rushville yesterday afternoon about five o'clock. People differ on the flyer as to whether it was an airship or a balloon.

A dispatch from Sullivan, Ind., in the Indianapolis Star this morning said that a rural mail carrier saw an aeroplane pass over that city yesterday. The craft was only two hundred feet about the earth, so close that the aviator called down and asked the way to Indianapolis. It might be possible that it was the same machine which was seen here.

CHANGE THE PLAN FOR EXAMINATIONS

Supt. Alely Will Send Out Suggestions to Teachers and Importance of Institute.

ASKED TO WATCH LANGUAGE

The relation of play to education, methods of raising library funds, suggestions to teachers and the importance of the township institute are discussed in the outline of township institute work for 1910 and 1911, which is to be sent out in a few days from the office of Robert J. Alely, state superintendent of public instruction. The booklet was prepared by Dr. Alely and E. G. Brunell, assistant superintendent.

"The township institute," says Dr. Alely in the preface of the book, "costs the State a large sum of money. Whether the State gets value received in return depends upon the attitude and work of teachers and school officials. The institute has been a great factor in the improvement of our schools. Patrons should be encouraged to attend the meetings, to participate in discussions and occasionally to lead in the presentation of some topic."

Teachers are instructed during September to take careful notice of the language used by their pupils and to record all errors observed, and during September and October to observe spelling. Entertainments are suggested for raising funds for library purposes.

Shortly after 12 o'clock word reached here from Rays Crossing that the home of William Keppel near Rays Crossing had been broken into by a white man and a negro. Sheriff Butler had left for Franklin and Chief Manlove took the matter in hand again as he was certain from the description given that the house-breakers were the same men he had been chasing earlier in the day near this city.

They hurried but found that the fugitives were also covering the ground pretty fast even if they were on foot and they were soon over on Rush county soil. Manilla and other Rush county towns had been advised of the burglary and were on the lookout for the thieves. A number of men at Homer had finally sighted the couple and halted them for an explanation. The men showed no fight when the auto came in sight with the officers and quietly submitted to arrest. They denied the burglary at first but when taken to the Keppel home the negro stated that the white man had entered the home through a window and that he had stole several articles.

The white man still denied his guilt, but after being placed in jail here at 4 o'clock Sunday evening made a confession, giving his name and place of residence, and taking the blame for the job at the Keppel home.

Chief Manlove found only about 35 cents worth of postage stamps on the man's person and nothing that would indicate that he is a member of the postoffice safe blowing gang that has been reaping so rich a harvest in this part of the State.

The news that the Marshall home had been entered did not reach this city until late Sunday evening and the officers knew nothing about what had been taken there. Mr. Keppel, who had been visiting in Rush county, did not reach home till after 8 o'clock Sunday night.

BAPTISMAL SERVICES.

The Rev. J. W. Turner devoted the Sunday morning hour to the baptism of infants. At the evening service he preached on "The Relationship of Children to the Church."

SHIRT WAISTS

Where is the Lady

who, in the course of the hot summer months does not add to her wardrobe several shirtwaists. The shirtwaist is the one garment that is in universal use, and brings to the wearer a sense of the most profound refreshment.

Choosing a shirtwaist should not be done in an off-hand manner, but should be given the attention it justly deserves. Differences in the quality of shirtwaists exist as much as in any other garment. And then there is that satisfaction that comes from the surety that the style—that all-important style—is absolutely correct.

Hundreds of beautiful shirtwaists await you, with the best of the existing styles represented. There is the waist with high collar and long sleeves, the waist with the Dutch collar and long or elbow sleeves, and the waist with low, square neck and elbow sleeves, all elaborately trimmed. Then too there are several styles of strictly tailored waists, either plain, plaited or neatly embroidered.
